

Family Threads Astrological Analysis

A mindful interpretation of your family's charts in order to understand how best to support your children through the lessons they came here to experience.

"Astrology is what we live." - Robert Ootto

A baby is born as a blank canvas, with all the possibilities for a magical and fulfilling life; a new beginning with a story yet to be written... or so we used to think. Now, we understand that we aren't actually born with a "blank canvas." Our "canvas," or soul plan, is actually mapped out in many ways.

Our "soul map" is made up of archetypal energy patterns that have been captured, defined, and analyzed for decades by the greatest minds in psychology, sociology, and astrology. We call this the natal birth chart. A literal map based on the planetary alignments at the moment of our birth. The position of the planets in the sky, relative to our geographical location of birth, offer us a plethora of insight into who we are and the soul work we are born to do!

We incarnate with focus points and areas of growth that our soul set the intention of experiencing and learning through. There are key circumstances, relationships, and energy dynamics that we decided would be best for us in order to grow as a soul. There are patterns that we chose to work with that will support what we create throughout our life. We, as souls, coded ourselves with strengths, talents, skills, and wisdom that we knew would suit our plan best.

We experience this map in everyday life. In our family relationships, friendships, romantic relationships, career, finance, education, etc. The map of the natal birth chart reveals themes and experiences that will play out in order to help us reach our highest potential. The more we understand our birth chart, the easier it is to recognize the plan in action in everyday life.

One of the most important aspects of our growth in this lifetime is our family. The family we are born into and the family we create for ourselves. Family relationships are sacred contracts between souls with a predetermined set of lessons and energies that will play out between each other. This is why family can be our source of the greatest love and joy and connection, or it can be the opposite, and be our greatest source of conflict and challenge, and isolation, in some cases. Most of us will experience it in both ways, the good and the bad, the connection and the disconnection that often occurs in families.

Soul contracts in families are sacred, even if they bring challenges. These relationships often serve as catalysts for our personal evolution. We “activate” key parts of each other and when we can look at our experiences from a higher perspective, we can see the gift that we give each other, just by being ourselves. Some of our family will activate us through loving and positive experiences, others may activate us through restriction and conflicts. Often, it is a combination of both types of experiences and neither one is better than the other or more “valuable.”

Families are complicated tapestries of individual plans, working within the holistic “family plan” or soul group’s plan. There are personal goals we have for this lifetime and, as we are working on ourselves, we are also impacting our current family, as well as our ancestors, and future generations. Each soul works on behalf of themselves, their family lineage, and the collective, as a whole.

A Family Threads Analysis looks at each individual member of the family separately and then the whole family as a unit. There will be archetypal energies and patterns that reveal the dynamics of the family amongst the individual members and show the overall work the family is doing as a team in this lifetime.

Family Threads show us...

- relationship dynamics between parents, children, and siblings
- the strengths and weaknesses that are balanced by the members in the family
- the possible triggers that will create conflict within the family and personal challenges for each member
- specific areas of support that each family member needs from each other
- insight into the inner workings of each member of the family
- the qualities that make each family member feel most grounded and secure
- the insecurities and fears that will need to be honored and compassionately supported by each member in the family
- the overall generational work that the family is carrying out in this lifetime
- the shadow work that members are doing on behalf of the ancestors
- the zodiac houses of focus for each member of the family
- insight into education and learning patterns, social development, friendships and relationships for children

The Family Threads Astrological Analysis Plan

Cost: $350 per family member; includes

- analysis of each individual birth chart*
- astrological threads analysis across charts for the entire family*
- 5 sixty-minute Zoom coaching sessions (recorded for future reference) focusing on family threads analysis (over the course of 3-6 months)*

-real-time family support via direct messaging for applying astrological insight in everyday life and circumstances as they arise

-Cosmic Partnerships Printable Handbook (PDF) with astrological principles for personal reference as you begin to learn and understand your family's charts

-Family Threads Journal for notetaking and journaling as we explore your threads during each session

Payment Options:

Pay in full (based on number of family members) or

Monthly payments of $350 until paid in full (sent via invoice)

If you'd like further information or if you have questions, reach out to me via soulstrengthtarot.com to schedule a free conversation.